PEKING MOVES

Li Imposes Condition For Accepting Presidency

(Reuter's Pactic Service)

Peking, June 4.—An official report from Canton states that Dr. Sun Yat-sen has returned there with the object of endeavoring to reform a strong South-Western Government to meet the changed conditions in the North.

It is stated that Dr. Sun Yat-sen opposes the appointment of General Li Yuan-hung on the ground that General Feng Kuo-chang legally succeeded him at the Presidency and served out General Li's original presidential term. The Peking vernacular papers, on the other hand, say that General Li Yuan-hung stipulates that his acceptance of the Presidency shall be conditional on Dr. Sun Yat-sen's retirement and also the abolition of tuchunships and the disbandment of superfluous troops.

No information has reached Peking with regard to General Li Yuan-hung's intentions. The Chihli party, headed by Generals Tsao Kun and Wu Pei-fu, sent a telegram yesterday urging him to proceed to Peking as soon as possible while the Cabinet has also pointed out to him the necessity for refilling the Presidency and is despatching Mr. Kao Ping-hung to Tientsin to explain its views more clearly.

A Cabinet order today appoints the Counsellor of the Cabinet, Mr. Chang Ming-cheng, concurrently Acting Secretary of the Cabinet.

It is reported that in the course of an interview after his arrival at Tientsin Mr. Hsu Shih-chang expressed the opinion that reunification was imminent and hoped that no disagreement would arise between Generals Tsao Kun and Wu Pei-fu.

A meeting will be held tomorrow to discuss the abolition of inland Customs (Changkuan—apparently inland customs not controlled by the Maritime Customs). Various Ministries are expected to appoint representatives to discuss in committee and report on it.

The Chiaotungpu has issued an order stating that as no definite plan has been adopted for the construction of the Tsangchow-Chihchiachwang Railway it is unnecessary to maintain a Board for that Railway, which is accordingly abolished.

FINAL SCENES OF TRAGEDY BEGUN HERE UNFOLDED

Brazil, Indiana, Papers Tell Of Homecoming There Of William J. Snyder

Papers received from Brazil, Indiana, tell of the closing scenes of the tragedy which had its beginning in Shanghai on March 28 last when Mrs. William J. Snyder was shot down by two Korean revolutionists attempting to assassinate Baron General Tanaka. The reports deal with the homecoming of the stricken husband with the ashes of the wife with whom a few months previously he set out on a tour of the world.

Mr. Snyder arrived home on Saturday, April 29, according to the report of The Brazil Daily Times, and a funeral sevice was conducted the following Tuesday afternoon.

"The rooms of the Snyder home on North Meridian Street," says the Brazil paper, "were banked with elaborate floral pieces and huge baskets of flowers from sorrowing relatives and friends. The funeral service was conducted by Doctor Gobin of De Pauw University assisted by the Rev. S. S. Aikman of the First Presbyterian Church. Following the service the remains were taken to Highland Lawn Cemetery at Terre Haute for interment."

2,000 U. S. GOBS DUE TO ARRIVE IN PORT TODAY

American Asiatic Destroyer Fleet Coming For Two Weeks' Stay

Two thousand American sailors and marines will be in Shanghai for a two weeks' stay beginning today, when eighteen destroyers of the United States Asiatic fleet will arrive in port from their base at Manila. From here, the destroyers will proceed to Chefoo, where they will be stationed during the summer.

The U. S. S. Huron, flagship of the Asiatic fleet, with Admiral Joseph Strauss on board, is not scheduled to arrive here until next Monday and will proceed to Chefoo later.

Extensive plans for the entertainment of the visiting gobs are being made by the Navy Y. M. C. A. The tentative program includes dances, sukiyaki parties, Chinese chow, concerts, moving pictures, and sightseeing trips to points of interest in and near Shanghai.

To meet the demand caused by the arrival of the large number of sailors the Navy 'Y' is making an appeal to all Americans for books, gramaphone records, and magazines. There is an urgent need of several thousand magazines and they may be either sent to the 'Y' at 6 Avenue Edward VII, or they will be called for.

The Navy Y. will have a large establishment for the entertainment of sailors at Chefoo this summer. The headquarters there will be ready on the arrival of the American fleet. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brown will leave for Chefoo on June 15 to organise and take charge of the work.

American Chamber To Meet Thursday

Due to the absence of a quorum, the meeting of the American Chamber of Commerce called for June 1 at the Union Club has been adjourned until 5:15 p.m., Thursday, June 8 at the same place. The meeting is being held to consider proposed amendments to the by-laws and rules of the Chamber as recommended by the executive committee and such other matters as may come before it. Copies of the proposed revision are now in the hands of all members.

Requests Retention Of Telegraph Chief

General Ho Feng-lin has telegraphed the Ministry of Communication asking that Mr. Lu Zau-kwe, director of the Shanghai telegraph office, be retained in that post, according to reports appearing in the Shanghai Journal of Commerce. Recently, Mr. Doo Feng-sz, a brother of Admiral Doo, was appointed to succeed Mr. Lu, but General Ho is asking that the appointment be withdrawn because of Mr. Lu's effective administration of the office here.

Crane Attributes Sentence Story To Mistaken Identity

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 2.—Mr. Crane, the former American Minister at Peking, interviewed by Reuter's correspondent here today while en route to America, stated that he had traveled through Palestine, Syria, Egypt and Eastern Europe in the past two months and said that the report of his conviction by a French Court had probably originated in the conviction after the recent demonstrations at Damascus for a free Syria, of Dr. Shahbended, a distinguished graduate of Beirut College, who knew Mr. Crane several times at Damascus. "That seems a sufficient time for Dr. Shahbended to be sentenced to fifteen years imprisonment."

Mr. Crane declared that American missionaries and American enterprises in Asia Minor were seriously menaced by the growth of anti-Western feeling among all factions of the inhabitants who were tired of mandates. It was impossible for America to regard the movement without concern.

Mr. Crane further declared that the Zionist situation was becoming worse. Practically the whole of the official world was controlled by the Zionist Commission and they were more ardent to carry out the Commission's instructions than the policy of the Mandate Government.

ARTILLERY IN ACTION IN ERIN; REPUBLICANS PUT TO FLIGHT

Grave Development On Fermanagh-Donegal Border

REAL WAR AGAIN

Troops With Armored Cars And Big Guns Active

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 5.—Grave developments have occurred on the Fermanagh-Donegal border. British troops who yesterday entered Pettigo, from where Republicans, joined by Free State forces last week drove out the Protestant businessmen and occupied their houses, were fired on. Artillery was brought into action and the Republicans were driven out and their commandant captured. It is believed that they suffered heavy losses. The rebels subsequently evacuated Belleek and Magherameena Castle.

London, June 5.—The movement of British forces towards Belleek and Pettigo, of which the sharp engagement mentioned was the outcome, began late on Saturday night, when troops in full kit, accompanied by artillery, armored-cars and Crossley cars, from Enniskillen marched along the western side of Lough Erne to Belleek. Big guns were placed in a position where they were able to shell Magherameena Castle, Belleek and the fort.

It was midday on Sunday when the Republicans, who were entrenched in the Hillsend woods close to Pettigo, first offered resistance with rifle-firing and heavy machine-gunning. The artillery quickly responded, Stormer parties dashed through the village and the Republicans surrendered with their arms within the 15 minutes' grace allowed. Six Republicans were killed. The sole British casualty was a motor-driver killed. The captured officers were taken to Enniskillen.

A British General directed operations from a hill. The troops received a joyous welcome from the loyalists.

Another phase of the operations was a surprise landing of military on a biggish sized boat on an island in Lough Erne. Boats previously commandeered from the Island fisherfolk were used to ferry soldiers to the island, the uttermost point of which was within easy range of the Ulster mainland occupied by Sinn Feiners. The landing party reached here with the utmost caution. Lough Erne was dotted with motorboats carrying supplies.

London, June 5.—A communique issued by the headquarters of the Ulster military district mentions that in the course of the attack on Pettigo three rebels were killed by artillery firing at a machine-gun from a wood behind Pettigo.

London, June 4.—The Irish crisis has been brought to the forefront again by the possibility of an early general election in the event of drastic measures proving necessary.

This prospect is indicated by several Sunday papers, the idea being that the Government would desire to obtain a definite mandate before embarking on armed intervention or other grave steps.

The fact that opinion all along the line is ranging hearty support of the Government's determination to maintain the principles laid down by the Treaty tends to strengthen the idea that the Government would face the electorate with confidence.

It is understood that political agents throughout the country have been warned to be ready for emergencies but the hope for a peaceful solution, however, is not entirely abandoned.

The Observer counsels Mr. Arthur Griffith and Mr. Michael Collins to take moral courage by both hands, even at this belated time, and face a clean split with the followers of Mr. de Valera.

It mentions that the Cabinet clearly indicated to Mr. Griffith on Friday that it would not consent to the formation of an Irish Government in which any Minister was in any wise precluded from carrying out the full obligations of the Treaty. It was Mr. Griffith's assurances on this point that were held to justify the resumption of the discussion on the coming Tuesday.

There's No Such Thing As A "Trained Amah"

By Elsie McCormick

If the ways of the house-boy are obscure and devious, those of the missie amah are as dark as a lesser boulevard in Sheol. We have heard of people advertising optimistically for a "trained amah," quite oblivious to the fact that there is no such thing. There are amahs who have served for a long period in foreign families, but a durable protective covering which they wear over their brain-cells prevents any of the training from percolating below the level of their puritanical coiffures.

Ideas may rain on an amah like a spring shower, but she never even gets her gray-matter damp. Perhaps you show her the darning stitch you learned in boarding-school and used until you discovered that a bit of ink of the head was more expeditous. She registers polite [illegible] by swinging her jaws ajar and raking her scalp reflectively with a gold-plated ornament in her hair. You hand the hosiery back to her. Two minutes later, however, she is busy taking fish-net stitches and gathering the edges into a lump that will cause the hole to be gone but not forgotten. Foreign ladies often wonder why it is that in China they must wear shoes two sizes larger than those they bought at home. The wicked darning-needle swung by the trained "missie amah" is the answer.

We have a missie amah over at our house. The only time we are really happy is when we are wearing tennis-shoes. Somehow we seem to have hit on the raw material of a syllogism, except that there is a premise missing. We won't try to find it, however, because if we did, we'd probably discover that amah had tucked it in the hat-box between a bottle of shoe-blacking and an untrimmed leghorn.

HER NAME OBSCURE

We are not quite sure of our missie amah's name, but it seems to be "Ah Gee." When we first heard the house-boy calling her, we thought that he had learned exclamatory English from us and the second time we thought he had hay-fever. Ah Gee is not as efficient as she used to be. In fact, she never was. The trouble with her is that she has missed her vocation. As a baseball player she would have made a wonderful short-stop, because she always stops so short when she thinks that she has ruined her daily quota of stockings.

As a golf-player she would have made a great putter, because she can put things where nobody in the world can find them, including herself. We remember an occasion after her departure for the evening when we called up the police to help locate a white fur coat of ours. While they were taking description of the ice-man, the tailor, and others who had called during the day, we noted the coat lying under our bed, carefully smoothed out, with the sleeves chastely crossed over the second button. All that was lacking was a wreath.

"Amah put away," says Am Gee placidly, when tennis-racquet, bar-pin, or last year's organdie fail to respond to a frantic search. We are reminded of a sailor we once read about in a French reader who claimed that he couldn't call his silver

SHANGHAI WILL SEE NEWEST OF EMPRESS BOATS

Invitations Issued For Special Tea Aboard Empress Of Canada

Invitations have been issued by the Canadian Pacific Steamships, Ltd., to a tea which will be served on board the new giant liner Empress of Canada on her maiden visit to Shanghai on Friday. Special tender services have been arranged for, and guests will be taken to Woosung from the Customs Jetty. The tender Victoria will leave the jetty at 2 p.m. and leave the Empress liner at 4:30 p.m. on the return trip. The tender Vulcan will leave the jetty at 3:00 p.m. on the down trip and return at 5:30 p.m. Admission to the tenders will be by card only.

The Empress of Canada is now in Hongkong. It was brought around from England by Captain A. J. Hailey, making the trip out in splendid time and without the slightest trouble. The vessel is 22,500 tons, a bit larger than the Empress of Asia and the Empress of Russia, and is an oil-burner. She was built by the Fairfield Shipping Company, is 644 feet long and has a beam of 77 feet, 6 inches. She can carry approximately 2,300 crew and passengers, with first-class accommodations for 492 passengers, second class 106, third, 238 and steerage, 922. On the passage out from England, the Empress was manned by a crew of British sailors. At Hongkong, however, she is picking up a crew of about 500 Chinese, with British officers and other officials.

Even more noteworthy than on the other palatial Canadian Pacific liners is the degree of luxury apparent everywhere on this newest Empress boat. In tropical weather, at least forty motors are at work on the boat deck, providing cool air all over the ship. There is a swimming bath, a promenade deck which averages seven laps to the mile, a well fitted gymnasium, smoking rooms, a lounge and library, a special children's playroom, a music room, and many other features especially designed to provide recreation for the traveller.

POINCARE NOTE NEW CHALLENGE TO HAGUE MEET

Demand On Soviet Likely To Cause Trouble, Belief

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 5.—The prospects of the unentanglement of the Russian knot at The Hague Conference is considered far from improved by M. Poincare's Memorandum. Disappointment, somewhat tactly expressed, is voiced at the Premier's policy, which is described as a new challenge to Europe. His demand that the Soviet should preliminarily withdraw its Note presented to the Allies at Genoa on May 11, coupled with the other conditions, is regarded as likely to render the Conference abortive.

These views are not shared by the Times and the Morning Post, which are consistently sympathetic towards the French standpoint. They express the opinion that the French Premier's Note merely raises very pertinent questions.

The Westminster Gazette examines the alternative plans arising from certain nations' attitude and considers that the wisest would be to hold the Conference even if France, Belgium and America do not attend.

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, May 29.—According to the Journal de Debats, France thinks that the commission at The Hague must restrict its work to the study of economic conditions of Russia. France will not allow the turning of a technical commission into a diplomatic organ, says the paper.

EXECUTION OF WAR PRISONER BY GEN. FENG REACTS ON WU

Killing Of Honan Commander Causes "Situation"

TROUBLE BREWS

Chihli Leader Has Plan To Crush Cantonese

BY JOSEF W. HALL
Staff Correspondent the China Press

Paoting, May 29.—It appears that General Feng Yuh-hsing's summary action executing the Honan commander who had surrendered to him has brought about complications which threaten to make his position in Honan Province untenable. General Feng has telegraphed to Generalissimo Wu Pei-fu four times asking to be relieved of the responsibility as Tuchun of Honan Province. General Wu Pei-fu greatly regrets General Feng's drastic action—which contrasts with Wu Pei-fu's own policy of conciliation—and will, it would seem, be compelled to accept General Feng's retirement as Tuchun. The plan is to give General Feng a position as defender of the country's peace on the Kiangsi which will require purely General Feng's unquestioned military ability but which will not throw upon him any administrative burden.

General Feng's execution of the Honan officer is a parallel to the execution in Shensi one year ago of Kuo Chien, the notorious Shensi brigand, who however threw in his lot with the Chihli army against Chen Shu-fan but was later perfidiously executed by the Chihli commander. The execution of the Honan general, however, seems to have produced more serious results than followed even the despatch of Kuo Chien. Military commanders throughout the province are said to have been thrown into a suspicious and almost hostile attitude with the result that practically every county will now have to be overawed by force of arms whereas it would have been possible by more gentle methods to have won over the local officials and commandants.

SENDS STAFF CHIEF

General Wu's Chief of Staff and most level headed assistant, General Li, is now in Kaifeng in practical charge of the situation. General Wu Pei-fu is especially desirous of avoiding enmity and violence in this region as it is his hope to dispose of the Chang Tso-lin remnant of authority in Anhui by peaceable means and conciliate the Chekiang and Shanghai authorities in view of his policy of rendering support to Chen Kwang-yuan of Kiangsi in repelling the invasion of Sun Yat-sen and of assisting Lu Yung-ting in his return to Kiangsi who is anxious to get the country between his main force and the Yangtsze River pacified as soon as possible and obviate any further disturbance.

General Lu is still in Tientsin, waiting for matters to shape up a bit more definitely before returning to Kiangsi and also, we may add, for the printing presses to turn out an issue of paper money with which he hopes to float himself in that distracted province. General Wu Pei-fu is sending very strong reinforcements, both by way of men and supplies, to Chen Kuang-yuan, who is under orders to bait Sun Yat-sen on into his own territory, pretending great fear and sending out frenzied calls for help the while, until a favorable opportunity of delivering a smashing blow at the Cantonese, which will send Sun in flight to some foreign country.

FENG'S POSITION

Although conclusive information is lacking here, it is believed that the commander whom General Feng executed was the man whom Chao Chieh sent with a brigade overland to destroy the Yellow River bridge and who, upon reaching the bridge, and being told by Wu Pei-fu's guards there that Chang Tso-lin's army had already gone to Peking, marched back into Kaifengfu and shut himself within the city until Feng's arrival.

Gen. Feng's friends refuse to believe that the present incident will place him under the shadow for long and predict that his next promotion will be to the Tuchunship of Shantung.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 5.—Reports from Shanhaikuan indicate that the lull continues there. General Chang

Tso-lin continues to withdraw his forces. General Wu Pei-fu's flanking column is believed to be carrying on its advance from Jehol and is likely to strike at the Fengtien rear unless a retirement is executed meanwhile.

The Chihli Commander at Changli is stated to have issued a warning to foreigners to withdraw from that district as heavy fighting is expected.

There has been some interference with the railway at various points, but no serious damage to the line has been done.

Will Li Accept Peking Presidency If Terms Are Met

(Reuter Pacific Service)

Peking, June 5.—Pressure is being exerted on many sides to induce General Li Yuan-hung to assume the Presidency, but the latter is still making conditions. No definite date has been fixed for his departure from Tientsin.

Plans for the new Administration, however, are progressing, the latest indication of them being that Mr. Kao Eng-hung, returning from an interview with General Li at Tientsin, reports that the latter is willing to assume office conditionally on the abolition of tuchanates, the disbandment of superfluous troops and the installation of a public accounting system in the matter of national finances.

The Cabinet this afternoon is despatching Messrs. Kao Eng-hung and Tung Kang to Paotingfu to discuss with General Wu Pei-fu plans for the future government.

It is now apparent that the restoration of the Old Parliament under General Li Yuan-hung is uniting the ranks of the Peiyang Party, which has been divided since the Anfu War of 1920. The Tuchuns of both the Anfu and Chihli factions are supporting the appointment of General Li and the hope of reunification is growing proportionately. It is noteworthy that the Anfuite General Li Hou-chi has despatched a delegate to congratulate General Li Yuan-hung at Tientsin, while the Anfuite General Lu Yung-hsiang is discussing measures for co-operation with the new Administration with Mr. Chu Fu-cheng, the member of the Old Parliament representing Chekiang.

Mr. Chang Wen-lin, representing the National Union of Chambers of Commerce, and Mr. An Ti-sheng, representing the Peking Chamber of Commerce, leave for Tientsin today to congratulate General Li.

The Cabinet still constitutes a problem. General Chang Shao-tseng is the popular choice for the Premiership but he has not yet accepted, because, it is believed, he does not approve of some of the nominees for portfolios who are being pressed upon him.

The Ministry of Justice has instructed all its staff except those properly qualified and regularly appointed to cease attendance at the Ministry pending the selection of a new Cabinet.

General Shen Wei-hsin has been appointed Superintendent of Telegraphs at Kiangsu.

(Eastern News Agency)

Mukden, June 1.—Marshal Chang Tso-lin is still in very high spirits. Marshal Chang on May 30 held a conference with one hundred representatives of the Three Eastern Provinces and discussed the future administrative policy. In the course of the conference, Marshal Chang delivered a speech to the effect that though he had marched Fengtien troops beyond Shanhaikwan in order to get rid of obstacles to the unification of the North and South, unfortunately enough he failed to accomplish his cherished object.

Therefore he would no longer participate in political affairs and intended to go out of his official [illegible] order that he might enjoy [illegible] life, adding that he [illegible] of administration of the Three [illegible] Provinces in accordance of those representatives who were present at the conference. They received, however, that Chang before [illegible] his real intention when he made his speech, and urged on the latter another, stating unanimously that if Chang should resign his post at this juncture the Three Eastern Provinces would meet with a great misfortune and also expressing the wish that Chang reconsider his resolution to resign and do his utmost to bring about public peace in Manchuria.

Hereupon, Marshal Chang once more stood up, and after expressing thanks for the good will thus shown him by the representatives said:

"In compliance with your request I will think the matter over and try not to run counter to public opinion. With regard to the federated self-government of the Three Eastern Provinces, I have already issued a circular telegram throughout the country and have now obtained approval from Dr. Sun Yat-sen and General Lu Jung-hsiang, Tuchun of Chekiang. Inasmuch as my administrative policy based on public will is under fair progress, I feel confident that I will be able to gain your confidence."

(Dah Tong News Bureau)

Hongkong, June 3.—It is reported that a telegram has been received here from the Kanchow (Kiangsi) Chamber of Commerce that the southern commanders have come to an arrangement with the Kiangsi troops that the latter will evacuate the place in order to save bloodshed and losses by the citizens.

(Independent News Service)

Hankow, June 1.—In the early morning of May 30, Canton's expeditionary troops on the border of Kiangsi sallied forth on a flanking movement toward Kian and Kiangsi troops remained firm on a defensive stand, but it is anticipated that severe fighting will probably take place today between the southern invaders and Kiangsi's choicest troops.

Tuchun Chen Kwang-yuan is now in a most perturbed state of mind, and is calling in the aid of his stronger lord, General Wu Pei-fu, to whom he has repeatedly done homage. General Wu Pei-fu is fully alive to the dangers attending the present perplexing situation in one of his allied provinces. He has recommended General Tsai Tson-hsun, of the First division, to the post of Commander-in-Chief of the counter-expedition into Kiangsi which was duly appointed by a Presidential Mandate.

General Wu has urged General Tsai to lead his troops to Kiangsi by way of Hankow and Kiukiang, and Tsai's vanguards have already arrived in Hankow ready to proceed to Kiukiang in a few days.

Taking cognisance of the urgent need for military aid in Kiangsi, General Wu Pei-fu has ordered the recalcitrant troops of Chao Chieh in Honan to be grouped in an army to help General Tsai in his rescue of Kiangsi. This will rid Honan province of Chao Chieh's rapacious hordes that are now ravaging Honan cities after an unfruitful attempt at revolt against Wu Pei-fu.

Several trainloads of ammunitions of war are passing through Hankow, and they are addressed "Chen Kwang-yuan, Kiangsi." These are supplied to General Chen from the arsenal which is now in the hands of General Wu Pei-fu. The Arsenal at Hanyang has likewise been ordered to co-operate with General Chen in his present trying hours.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 1.—The Military Council has resolved to grant General Tsai Cheng-hsun $500,000 for the expenses of the Kiangsi reinforcements.

Hankow, June 2.—Although General Tsai Tson-hsun has sent some of his men to Hankow to make preparations and arrangements for transporting troops into Kiangsi to rescue Chen Kuang-yuan, he is reported to be pessimistic about the prospect of a successful counter-expedition against General Li Lieh-chun's troops on the Kiangsi border.

He has demanded from the Peking government $80,000 for initial expenses of his mobilisations, but the money has not been forthcoming from Peking or Paotingfu.

No report of severe fighting has come to hand yet but it is persistently reported in Hankow that southern troops are threatening both Kian and Kanchow.

Christian General, Feng, Ordered To Pacify Honan

BY JOSEF W. HALL

Staff Correspondent the China Press

Paotingfu, June 2.—General Wu Pei-fu has ordered General Feng Yu-hsiang to complete the pacification of Honan province precedent to consideration of Feng's resignation of the Tuchunship. Feng's soldiers are making slow but steady progress and it is believed that within a few weeks they will occupy strategic centers in every prefect. The suspicion and hostility of the old officials and military, caused by the execution of General Pao Teh-chuan, commander of the Second Honan Division, is adding greatly to the difficulties of the task, although the ultimate results will probably be its more thorough accomplishment.

The reason given by General Feng for the execution of Pao is the alleged killing of prisoners of war by the officers of his division. A number of men of the Eleventh Division who fell into the hands of the Honanese during the fighting are said to have been disarmed and then deliberately shot in defiance of the rights of prisoners of war. The evidence adduced is that the Eleventh Division, upon advancing into Kaifeng, found a score or more of their own men lying in one spot with two bullet wounds through the head of each. On the other hand, those who disapprove of the execution of Pao point out that his surrender was offered to General Feng in good faith and apparently accepted by him in the ordinary manner. He was brought into General Feng's headquarters and after the passage of a few hasty words was immediately taken out and shot.

RETURNS TO SHENSI

Paotingfu, June 2.—Hu Li-seng, the picturesque three hundred pounder who has been for years the moving spirit in the Chinkuochun, or so-called southern force in Shensi, has returned to his province from Paotingfu, due to reports of the outbreak of disruption there. When Yen Hsiang-wen, in command of Chihli troops, entered Shensi Province one year ago, Hu Li-seng, who had long been at enmity with the then Tuchun, Chen Hsu-fan, joined forces with Yen. After Yen's death from opium poison Hu supported Feng Yu-hsiang and materially aided him in the subjugation of the province. When Feng marched out of Shensi with two divisions to the assistance of Wu Pei-fu in the recent struggle, Hu volunteered to aid with a brigade of his own. He came in advance of his men to Paoting and has since been waiting for them to arrive on the scene of action, but it appears that they failed to get through the defiles to the railhead in time to be of any service.

STARTED REVOLT

When Feng Yu-hsiang left Sianfu with the best troops it was expected that disrupted elements in Shensi would attempt to take advantage of the situation. However, two divisions of Chihli troops still remained in the province; the Seventh under Wu Hsin-tien and the Twentieth under Yen Chih-tang as well as some forty-six regiments of provincial troops under the civil and acting military governor, Liu Chen-hua. Immediately upon Feng's departure it appears that Yu Yui-jen, the old Kuomintang agitator and former mentor of Hu Li-seng, began a rebellion in Fenghsiang, the citadel of the old Han dynasty on the border of Kansu which has been a haven for agitators and brigands recurrently since. The movement has been checked, according to despatches just arrived in Paotingfu, by the prompt action of Division Commander Yen, who has thrown a ring around the affected area. There is still some disruption in the remote sections of the province. Chen Hsu-fan has never yet been eliminated from Hanchung although the force with him at the present time is said to be very small.

The burial of ex-Tuchun Yen Hsiang-wen, who died of opium poisoning (whether administered by himself or others has never been made clear) in Sianfu last summer, and whose several months in transport overland to Paoting, was buried here today. The ceremony and procession were very elaborate and traffic on the streets of Paoting was suspended throughout the morning.

Sklarevski

Rarely have Shanghai music-lovers been afforded an opportunity to hear a program of such tremendous scope and excellence as that given last night at the Cercle Sportif Francais by Alexander Sklarevski, pianist. Mr. Sklarevski had hitherto been known to Shanghai only through the medium of the concerts in which Mme. Lydia Lypkowska had starred. By his appearance last night he eminently justified his right to stardom on his own account. It was a program pleasingly different. Seldom would even a virtuoso of the first rank have attempted all in any one night. Yet Mr. Sklarevski not only attempted, but carried off every number in a fashion which left no doubt as to his technical ability or deep appreciation of the thoughts of the composer.

The opening number, the Beethoven Andante in F Major, is one well known to music-lovers everywhere and Mr. Sklarevski's rendition of it was of such a character as to stand comparison with the best. There followed the Beethoven-Saint Saens "Choeur des Dervisches Tourneurs," delivered in a dashing fashion with a carefree abandon which acutally made auditors see in their minds' eyes pictures of wild dervishes spinning about over desert sands.

In the Schumann Carnival, Op. 9, which completed the first section of the program, Mr. Sklarevski took his audience through the score of different movements, showing throughout a technique which ranked as near perfect as is humanly possible, and at the same time a wholehearted love of melody and the ability to breathe the soul of melody into the notes of his instrument. So effective was he in this number that he was forced to respond to no less than four curtain calls and finally to grant an encore.

The second section was made up of compositions by Scriabine and DeBussy, followed by a group of four numbers—"Bacarolle," by Arenski; "Petite Valse," by Liadow; Gluck-Scambatti's "Melody," and Liszt's "Cappricciosso Campanella." In all, as in his earlier offerings, the artist scored tremendously.

The audience was select, but what it lacked in numbers it made up in enthusiasm. Some measure of the success of the concert should be accorded to Mrs. A. G. Stephen, who very kindly arranged to loan her Steinway concert grand piano for the affair.

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realising this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense, and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered pheminol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefuly and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove, and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair, and should then be carefully washed in warm water, and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talcum powder. (Advt.)

Yes, there is no doubt about that, and we have recognised it from the first, making "quality" our principal aim. Nothing will do us but the best, irrespective of expense. No amount of advertising, pushing, etc., will help us, if the quality of our products is not of the best, it would simply mean so much money wasted. And in nothing is "quality more telling with the public than with the articles they consume, such as Aerated beverages. Our reward has been the enormously increased demand for our

WU WILL RETAIN PRESENT GRIP ON RAIL REVENUES

Will Let Go Only When Peking Gives Him Million Monthly

Paoting, May 30.—The administration of the Peking-Hankow Railway has returned to Peking with the exception of the treasury department which will remain in Paotingfu until the Ministries of Finance and War show themselves able to make good their pledge of one million dollars a month for the upkeep of General Wu Pei-fu's armies. The Peking-Hankow line is making efforts to procure the restoration of its wandering rolling stock and more particularly of its locomotives. Officials of the line, however, have small hope of persuading the Peking-Mukden line to give up the locomotives belonging to the Peking-Hankow Railway, which are now being used between Peking and Shanhaikuan, so long as Chang Tso-lin continues to hold practically the entire locomotive power of the Mukden line and Wu Pei-fu continues to demand transport for his troops on that railway.

Mr. Chen Fu-ching, Chief Materials Inspector of the Peking-Hankow line has been sent from Tungchow to Tengshan to make some arrangement between the two lines regarding the temporary use of Peking-Hankow locomotives and rolling stock upon the Peking-Mukden road. At present nineteen Peking-Hankow locomotives are in use upon this line: comprising indeed a good part of its available driving power, at the present moment, since 137 locomotives from the Peking-Shanhaikuan section have been taken by Chang Tso-lin beyond the Great Wall.

NO RELIEF

No appreciable relief in traffic conditions between Peking and Luanchow is yet evident, although General Wu Pei-fu who was apprised largely through the foreign newspapers of the part which his own officers were playing in the disruption of traffic, has despatched a staff officer to take charge of military traffic and establish liaison with the railway management.

The mess which the Chihli troops have got into on the Peking-Mukden line and which makes strang contrast with the scientific traffic management which has obtained on the Peking-Hankow line, is due to several causes. The premier cause is undoubtedly the absence of Wu Pei-fu from direct command and the entrusting of the campaign to General Wang Chenping, who although a good fighter and military organiser, has had little experience in railway transport. Secondary causes are the inherent suspicion on the part of Chihli soldiers toward officials of a railway which has been under recent enemy control, and the absence of commandant's orders giving foreign traffic men prestige sufficient to overawe presumptions military officers such as were supplied to the French traffic managers on the Peking-Hankow Railway.

BACKED OUT

Experiences of traffic men on these two lines during the strife would make a volume of wonderful incidents, ranging from the ludicrous to the tragic. One of the best stories told is in that of the traffic men at the Chunliangcheng station who, upon the day of the Changhsintien defeat was ordered by Chang Tso-lin to have a train ready at three the next morning upon penalty of death. Naturally the railway men, who had been told that Chang's forces had been victorious all along the line, made up the train with the locomotive headed toward Peking. When the Fengtien Generalissimo bustled out the next morning before daybreak he found the train ready enough, but in order to travel in the direction in which he urgently wanted to go, he had to be backed out of the scene of his "victories."

Business both native and foreign in North China and especially in Tientsin is beginning to feel most severely the holdup of traffic on the Peking-Mukden line which is the main artery of trade of this region. At the same time the foreign mortgagees of the stolen rolling stock on the Peking-Mukden line are besieging their respective legations for protection against possible loss.

It is fervently hoped in foreign diplomatic circles that Wu Pei-fu's military action which is now under large way will settle the question shortly. If it does not, some form of foreign intervention would seem to be almost inevitable.

Negro Soldier's Assault On Woman Caused Macao Riot

Copies of the Hongkong Telegraph received in Shanghai today give the first authentic and complete trouble at Macao during which forty-seven Chinese were killed and over 100 wounded.

Reuter's telegrams from Macao have been very short and carried few of the actual details but the Hongkong paper's representative interviewed the Portuguese authorities, heads of the Chinese guilds and eyewitnesses of some of the happenings.

From his information it appears that the trouble actually started as the result of an assault on a Chinese woman by an African soldier recently sent to the colony from Delagao. Senher Cabaco, the police commissioner, verified the report.

A number of Chinese gathered about the soldier and after an argument proceeded to beat him up with poles and police were called. When they arrived they arrested several of the Chinese in the crowd and on the way to the police station the police were besieged by Chinese throwing flower pots, stones and other missiles. The police were forced to open fire and wounded two Chinese. In less that half an hour a crowd of over 2,000 Chinese was besieging the police station and a company of Portuguese troops were called out and formed a cordon about the station.

In the meantime the mob continued growing and just before midnight sixty-six banners, representing as many guilds, were planted within a few feet of the Portuguese troops. The police commisisoner, who, according to the Hongkong paper, made every effort to avoid hostilities, held a court at three o'clock in the morning at which a barber, one of the ring leaders was granted bail, but if brought forth only an insult, the Chinese Republic flag being hoisted in Portuguese territory by the mob.

After breakfast the next morning the station was still besieged and additional troops under command of Lieutenant Rodgeio Gerreira arrived near the station. The Lieutenant was manhandled by the mob and in the excitement some of the soldiers opened fire into the crowd. Panic ensued and in the rush to get away from the scene two Chinese were drowned. Forty-five were found dead and several score wounded.

Three prominent Chinese in Macao, the opium monoplist, the gambling monopolist and another wealthy merchant are now seeking to arbitrate between the Portuguese and Chinese.

Alumni Join In Annual Banquet

More than 150 former students of Lowric Institute and the Mary Farnham School attended an alumni banquet of the two institutions Saturday night at the Ningpo Club building. The two schools are situated at the South Gate of Shanghai and were established more than sixty years ago by the Presybterian Mission. The alumni have organised as a joint association of the two schools, with Mr. V. Z. Koo, general superintendent of the Commercial Press, in the chair. Officers elected for the coming year are: Dr. P. W. Kuo, president; Mrs. Z. S. Tong, vice-president; Mr. V. D. Thomas Tsu, secretary, and Mr. K. W. Chang treasurer.

The treasurer reported that the campaign for funds for a new dormitory for Mary Farnham School had resulted in subscriptions amounting to more than $30,000, of which $23,000 had already been paid in. The two schools have had a record attendance during the past term, with 290 enrolled in all departments of the boys' school and nearly the same number in the school for girls.

The principal address of the evening was made by Mr. D. Y. Chang who voiced the alumni's appreciation of the good work done by the Rev. J. Morton Espy, principal of the Normal Department of Lowrie Institute, who is sailing this month for Amrica. Mr. Espy came to China in 1905 and has had only one regular furlough during a service of seventeen years. He was the first superintendent of the American School.

MOTHER'S HELP AND BABY'S FRIEND

In every home where are infants or small children Baby's Own Tablets are a necessity. Mothers who once use these Tablets find them so wonderfully helpful for the little ones that they never afterwards resort to the numerous harsh purgatives which gripe and torture baby, or to the so-called "soothing" preparations which in most cases contain poisonous opiates.

Baby's Own Tablets are pleasant in taste, and are guaranteed absolutely pure and free from narcotic drugs. The youngest infant can take them with perfect safety. They quickly reduce fever, dispel colic and constipation, check diarrhoea, cure indigestion, relieve croup and colds, allay teething pains, expel worms, quiet the nerves and promote restful sleep in a natural way.

Druggists sell them, or post free 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai. No home where there are young children should be without.

There's No Such Thing As A "Trained Amah"

tea-pot really lost because he knew it was at the bottom of the sea. None of our possessions are really lost, either. They have merely been put away by amah. Some day, perhaps, amah will catch them, but by that time we'll probably be interviewing the Amir of Afghanistan, or writing our reminiscences from the angle of the Old Ladies' Home.

SOCIAL ARBITER

One of amah's chief duties seems to be to stand guard over our social career. "Missie no puttee on take-away dless?" inquires amah reproachfully when we start for an informal dinner-party in a gown that is not sufficiently decollete to suit amah's idea of social fitness. Whenever we announce our intention of flitting for the evening, Ah Gee's first question always is, "Missie go motor-car?" For some reason, gasoline holds potent charms for Ah Gee. If we are going by automobile, she cheerfully postpones her own dinner plans an hour or two in order to share in the eclat of our departure. If we humbly remark that we are taking a riesha, however, amah leaves silently and reproachfully by the rear exit, leaving us to work out the tailor's hook puzzle by algebra and the touch system.

Life, however, wouldn't be half as interesting without Ah Gee. The possibility of discovering a bottle of quinine tucked away in a party slipper of a boudoir cap slipped into a letter-file gives our existence a diversity that stands as a bulwark against boredom. Ah Gee's originality as evinced from day to day in her ever-changing disposal of our goods and chattels, coupled with her rock-bound conservatism in the method of darning our stockings is a combination that challenges all our nine units of psychology.

Incidentally, Ah Gee is a chemist of no mean talent. In just two days a bottle of our best Fleur d'Amour perfume changed suddenly into one of Wing On's bargains in cologne. Amah hasn't quite explained to us just how the metamorphosis took place, but then we'd rather have an amah with a craving for Fleur d'Amour than one with a fondness for onions.

FRENCH PLANE NOSE-DIVE INTO CHANNEL, 3 DEAD

Pilot And Two Passengers Meet Spectacular Death

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 3.—A French aeroplane, journeying from Croydon to Paris, nose dived into the Channel near Folkestone this morning. The machine struck the water with terrific force.

The pilot, M. Morin, and two passengers, MM. Ley and Carroll, were killed. The mutilated bodies of MM. Morin and Ley have been recovered.

London, June 4.—Whitsuntide holiday-makers at Folkestone were horrified at the sight of the Spad aeroplane which was wrecked close to land. The machine nose-dived 2,000 feet.

Wireless from Folkstone led a crowded cross-channel boat at full speed to the spot. A doctor who was a passenger entered the boat which was put off to the scene. He was shocked to find that one of those killed was his friend, the brilliant West End Obstetric surgeon, Dr. Gordon Ley.

It is surmised that the accident was due to an explosion in mid-air and that the victims were dead before reaching the sea.

London, June 4.—M. Carnoll, one of the victims of the aeroplane disaster off Folkestone, was a French business man. His brother, who had vainly tried to dissuade him from flying to Paris, was on board the cross-channel steamer which went to their assistance.

Wedding

GATTON-SHIBBETH

Miss Moselle Shibbeth, daughter of Mrs. S. J. Shibbeth, became the bride of Mr. S. Gatton, of Shamon Brothers, in a pretty ceremony solemnised at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Ohel Rachel Synagogue, with Rabbi W. Hirsh officiating, assisted by Mr. S. S. Somekh.

The synagogue was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The canopy at the entrance was dressed with garlands, bamboo foliage and lovely pots of choice flowers occupied suitable places here and there. Within the synagogue, beautiful streams of garlands hung from the dome in the ceiling to each corner. The ark was attractive in an array of flowering plants and palms intermingled with bamboo foliage and cut flowers. The altar had railings covered with a profusion of white carnations, ferns, and foliage.

The bride's gown was of silver lace of the richelieu design trimmed with silver and pearls and caught up with orange blossoms, and had a court train of silver brocade lined with tulle and trimmed with chiffon and silver roses and lovers' knots of orange blossoms. Her headdress was of orange blossoms in a tiara design, with a prettily embroidered veil.

The bridesmaids, the Misses Lillian Levis, Sibyl Goldman and Kitty Moosa, wore silver lace over pale pink georgette, trimmed with orchid georgette panels, and pink picture hats of tulle and chiffon. The flower girls, the Misses Winifred and Constance Levis, were pale pink tulle over taffeta, trimmed with roses, and garlands of rose and tulle bans on their heads. The Page boys, Masters Henry and Edgar Moosa, were in white satin cosume in the period of Louis XV. The bride's mother wore mole colored silk lace, over satin, with hat to match trimmed with a mauve plume.

The bridal bouquet was of white carnet roses, sweet peas and orange blossoms, fastened by wide satin ribbon in lovers' knots, tulle and baby ribbon. The bridesmaids' bouquets were of pale pink roses, and the flower girls held gypsy baskets filled with rose petals with which they strewed the aisles of the synagogue.

The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. E. H. Shibbeth.

Following the ceremony at the synagogue, a reception was held at the Astor Ball Room, which had been elaborately decorated for the occasion. Mr. R. D. Abraham proposed the health of the bride and groom.

The bridegroom's present to the bride was a pearl necklace, to the maid of honor a gold vanity case studded with diamonds, and to each of the bridesmaids, a pearl brooch.

Mr. and Mrs. Gatton left yesterday on the Fushimi Maru for Hongkong. From there they will go to Japan on the S.S. President Lincoln on June 20, staying at Miyanoshita until September.

ENGLAND WINS EIGHTS; AMERICA TAKES PAIRS ON BIG DAY OF HENLI RACES

Yesterday's Events Provide Big Interest; Club 8's Beat Committee

The last two days of the spring regatta were beautiful as regards weather, and it was most successful from a sporting point of view also, the English oarsmen and their many supporters being especially well pleased, for they added further laurels by annexing the International eights, winning with ease from their only opponents, America. The latter crew, however, gained the decision in the only other International event on the day's program, the pairs, getting home in front of England and Switzerland.

The other items on the day's card, both official and otherwise, were thoroughly enjoyed, especially those in the latter category, such as swimming in the pellucid waters of the Hsinyang-kong, which owing to the great heat of the day, proved to be a particularly pleasant form of doing the regatta.

The Veterans' Fours brought out no less than a quartette of boats, which is a pleasing indication of the actively healthy interest still maintained by the older oarsmen, but rowing is essentially a sport which calls for a high degree of physical condition, and the "soft" spots soon become apparent even over a two furlong course. Youth will be served, and the victors of the Mixed Fours, among whom ladies filled the positions of bow, stroke and cox, covered the quarter mile in eight seconds less than the old-timers clocked in their event over the same distance.

There being scarcely a puff of wind in the forenoon, the Sailing Race did not come off, but the Motor Boat event was very interesting, resulting in Mr. E. T. Byrne getting first, Mr. R. Fearon second and Mrs. Gauntlett third.

KIANGWAN TRACK RECORD FOR TWO MILES BROKEN BY LETCHFIELD IN HARD RACE

Big Throng Is Out For Final Race Meeting Of The Spring Season

With a program of eleven hard-fought contests, in one of which a track record was broken, the spring racing season was brought to a close yesterday at the Kiangwan course. A crowd that packed all the stands was out for the final meeting.

In general favorites ran closely to form, but in the course of the afternoon several upsets were staged with resultant dividends that went over the hundred-dollar mark. The first of the surprises developed in the sixth race when the pony Association, ridden by Mr. Haimovitch, finished in first place a half length ahead of Sir Colin ridden by Mr. Knoll, which had ranked as a favorite. Jason, ridden by Mr. A. N. Dallas, also had ranked as a favorite in the event and finished in third place. The payment on the winning pony was $145.10.

The biggest payment of the day ran to $225.40 and was paid to those who backed Mr. Liddell's Carlington in the eighth race in which twenty-three ponies started. Arlington ridden by Mr. Brand finished second in this event and Conqueror Dahlia, ridden by Mr. Knoll, third.

It was in the fourth race that the Kiangwan record for the distance of two miles was lowered an even second, from 4:22 2-5 to 4:21 2-5, by Letchfield, ridden by Mr. Heard. In winning the event Letchfield finished less than a length ahead of Petersfield, also of the Morriss stable, which was ridden by Mr. Morriss. King's Cross, ridden by Mr. Vida, took third place. The former record for two miles was set at Kiangwan by the Oriole two years ago.

Mr. Brand scored premier place among the riders, winning three races and taking second place in two other events. Mr. Heard won two races, finished second in one and third in another.

Try and Imagine This

First, a long, cool Kaintucky-style mint julep in a frosty glass and with a sprig of mint from the garden perched atop. And you're sitting on a wide verandah awatching the steamer lights down the river. The only lady is opposite and maybe the moon's ashining.

And then, presently, a soft-footed and deft-handed waiter brings in a dinner planned by an artist. A meal chosen with regard to the place and the time o' year. And then perhaps a dance or two and a quiet corner out on the lawn with the stars atwinkling down. And after a while a motor ride that's not too long and not too short—you know the kind.

"Where is it?" you ask? Why it's THE POINT—out by the Riverside.

Charlie Hannigs, that genial restaurateur from Tientsin side has taken over The Point. He's renovated it from bottom to top, employed a French Chef who is a Chef, and trained a staff of boys in a way of doing things that you wont find anywhere else in Shanghai.

And The Point is quickly becoming the dinner Place of this Town. Charlie is an old Service man and he knows how to extend a welcome. Ask any Army or Navy man. Come and spend an evening by the Riverside—you'll come again. If it's a party you're bringing out better phone "East 4-9-4" first and tell Charlie whats wanted.

Unfavorable Weather In U.S. Boosts Cotton Prices

(Reuter's Service)

New York, May 12.—The past week's cotton market has been broader than for many months and on the whole has displayed a strong undertone, notwithstanding a reaction of three quarters of a cent from the high level of just under 20 cents for the Fall and Winter positions. Buying has been very general, and while many in the trade believe that there is something more behind the advance than weather alone, it is safe to say that the bulk of speculative demand was based on the continued unfavorable weather in the South. Heavy rains during the week flooded large sections of bottom land in Texas, while the flood situation in the Lower Mississippi Valley shows little if any improvement, and thousands of square miles of rich farm land in this district are still many feet under water, with no prospect of drying out in time for cotton planting.

As the trade previously had been fearful of a poor crop start, these further rains in the Southwest increased the apprehension and caused demand to extend into spot as well as the futures markets. There are some well posted cotton people, however, who are confident that it is not yet too late for Texas and the Southwest generally to make a crop, provided favorable weather is had from now on; owing to the splendid season in the ground they feel that good yields on uplands will more than offset the losses from the flooded lowlands and the abandoned acreage. Nevertheless, it is generally admitted that the cotton crop start is two to three weeks late, that the danger of damage from boll weevil is thereby increased, and the acreage is likely to be smaller than at first anticipated. The weekly crop report of Geo. H. McFadden and Bros. places the acreage increase at 15 percent with a possibility that it may be less than this with a continuation of unfavorable weather. The average idea as to increase is still between 10 and 12 per cent. West Texas is putting in a big acreage, and the rains in extreme South Texas have left farmers in the irrigated section to plant cotton where they had originally intended to devote their entire acreage to truck raising. A member of a local house which has large land holding in South Texas, stated today that they would plant two thousand acres to cotton this Spring, because of the splendid soil condition, and that they expected to raise a bale to the acre.

Following a tour of inspection of the flooded Mississippi valley district, a delegation of Congressmen have returned to Washington with the firm purpose of advocating the expenditure of all necessary money and labor to protect the farm land of the Delta country from yearly overflows.

Scarcity of good planting seed is being heard of in many parts of the cotton belt. Governor Neff, of Texas, today asked for a Federal appropriation of half a million dollars to be used in the purchase of seed for replanting in Texas.

Boll weevils have already made their appearance on the young cotton in Georgia and Alabama. A Georgia despatch received today stated that on young cotton just up, as high as twenty-seven weevils had been found in a patch only three feet square.

While the weather of the week has increased the uncertainty of a new crop greatly exceeding the present season, trade news has indicated the probability of a heavy world consumption. Manchester has been doing a larger business in goods, with increased demand from India; and according to reports received from there today, British manufacturers are greatly concerned over the question of supplies, and a meeting of the British Spinners' Federation is to be held today to consider the outlook, probably with a view to solidifying British textile trade support for the extension of cotton growing in the colonies. Reports from the domestic goods trade have also indicated a more active business at advancing prices. Evidently the upturn in raw cotton stimulated buyers, who have been cleaning up all goods available at the prevailing quotations. The New England strike situation shows some sign of easing, several mills having reopened at the lower wage schedule and under court protection.

Large quantities of cotton are reaching New York for delivery on May contracts, and there has been some reduction in the premium of this position over July. Rumors that a settlement was made with May shorts on 50,000 bales, at 75 points over July lacks confirmation. Freight space is being booked by the owners of the local stock for shipment of cotton to Europe, but it is quite generally believed that the May longs, who are heavily short of July, contemplate the delivery of the bulk of their cotton on the latter position.

Sentiment both in trade circles and among the commission houses, continues of a strong bullish average, and 25-cent cotton is freely predicted.

SPEAKIN' 'bout East and West! The fellow who said "Fleischmans is East and Westphals for Dandruff" is wrong. The difference is a geographical one; a matter of location only. If a Chinese is "caught with the goods," he must save "his face"; a foreigner has to save "his skin." Perry said, "Don't give up the ship"; Nelson, "England expects, etc." New York sezs, "Excellent Cuisine"; Shanghai, "Best Chow," meaning, "Eighteen." I have the best American cooking, the cleanest rooms, the best service in the East, I'd have it in the West if I were there; so you see East is West at ELMONT'S 18 QUINSAN GARDENS.

Currency Inflation and Public Debts
AN HISTORICAL SKETCH

THIS timely treatise by EDWIN R. A. SELIGMAN, Ph. D., L. L. D., McVickar Professor of Political Economy, Columbia University, has been published by The Equitable Trust Company of New York, with a prefatory note by President Alvin W. Krech.

It is a volume of unusual interest at this time because it offers a clear and concise historical background, enabling bankers, statesmen and business men to better understand the present economic situation with its perplexing problems of taxation, price fluctuation, currency instability and the dislocation of foreign exchanges.

A limited number of copies are available for distribution upon request.

British Churches Aroused By Seizure Of Gems By Soviet

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 4.—In addition to the protest against the Soviet's persecution of the Church made by the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, some ecclesiastical authorities in Britain are endeavoring to ascertain the possibility of sending a representative to Moscow to attend the trial of the Patriarch Tikhon.

A message from Moscow states that the Metropolitan of Petrograd and the Archbishops of Mohilaw and Irkutsk have been arrested.

According to reports from Moscow the Church treasures which have been appropriated for the purpose of famine relief in forty-two provinces up to May 25 included 700 pounds of gold, 460,000 pounds of silver, 13,000 diamonds, 3,800 pearls and 30,000 other jewels.

Premier Pays High Tribute To Fallen

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 3.—After laying the foundation stone of the Criccieth War Memorial Hall Mr. Lloyd George paid a glowing tribute to the British fallen, who, he said, would have died in vain if the nations had not acknowledged that right was supreme.

A letter written by Mr. Lloyd George which was deposited in the stone, says that these young men died that the dominion of right and reason might be more firmly established in the government of men.

Poincare Denies Militaristic Aims

(Reuter's Service)

Verdun, June 4.—M. Poincare, in a speech made today on the occasion of the presentation of the Congressional Medal of Honor to Verdun by the American Ambassador, declared that while differences of opinion or interests were inevitable, French and American friendship was unshakeable.

He emphatically denied allegations that France was militaristic and imperialistic and claimed that since peace had been declared France had shown extraordinary moderation towards Germany, but if peace was allowed to enrich Germany at the expense of France it meant the irretrievable defeat of the Allied cause and the humiliation and ruin of France.

France, M. Poincare added, has too much life in her to accept that and too complete a trust in the Allies to fear their disapproval or disavowal.

Union Medical College Head Tells Of War Work

(Chung Mei Service)

Kaifeng, May 29.—"Now that twelve days have passed since the Peking unit left for Kaifeng, it seems almost impossible to think and write with the thrill of the first six. Then—with unoccupied buildings to occupy, with sanitationless toilets and garbage lumps and soiled dressing depositories to sanitate, with frames to carpenter, with ice tongs to nickel plate, with a kitchen to build, with gowns to sew, with orderlies to train, with the most of a delousing plant to set up, with nails and string and tape and shot and springs and straw and dippers and lime and sand to buy; and all the while with wounded streaming in on stretchers and rickshas and tables, their clothes soiled with dirt and pus and blood and their poor broken bodies crawling with vermin—then our brains were not with emotion and with the rapidity of events."

Thus writes Mr. Carrington Goodrich, of the Peking Union Medical College who took the relief unit from the College to Kaifeng.

"Order and routine have now commenced," he goes on, "and the soldiers—though many of them are still white with agony—are lying uncomplainingly in clean clothing and between clean cotlets, behind screened windows and doors, with fresh air to breathe and constant attention a hand, their dressings changed their bullets out, their shattered legs and arms slung up in Thomas splints and Balkan frames.

CONDITIONS "NAMELESS"

"The namelessness of a typical military hospital in Honan! I wonder how many people are acquainted with them. There are thirteen in Chengchow and two in Kaifeng from which we took patients. The squalor and filth of most of them has already cost some of the wounded their lives, and many lasting disfigurement and disability which might have been avoided.

"After the fighting near Chengchow on the sixth and until the eleventh they poured into these discarded temples and tumbledown courtyards and were left on their stretchers to receive only the occasional and slighting care of a dresser or attendant. Dr. Ma of our party was being shown the serious cases by one high officer in the medical corps in Chengchow and was brought to the bedside of one who had been dead for twenty-four hours. If only the members of the Peking Board of War could spend a few days in them as some of these have, perhaps the hospitals will not have existed in vain.

"It was from these little hells that a large part of our soldiers came. Three or four Honan missionary hospital physicians co-operated with members of the Tsinan and Peking units in selecting them. On Monday, Dr. Hodges x-rayed 21 who had already been admitted into the China Inland Mission Hospital, and operating commenced. On Tuesday morning 20 came by stretcher and truck from the hospital inside the city; in the afternoon 15 arrived from the one south of the railroad track; at night 24 were brought by train from Chengchow.

"That was a day! The confusion of the stretcher bearers at their new job, novelty and tiniess of the delouser, the multitude of unfinished, unthought-of details in preparation of the wards at the hospital and then, the arrival of those 24 at 10:30 in the evening, a mile from the hospital, with no sign of a stretcher bearer or the hope of getting one.

TIME MEANT LIFE

"At first we considered leaving the men in the cars and fetching them early in the morning. But time meant life, so five of the Peking unit with the help of Dr. Andreassen of Kweitch and a rather unwilling captain and three privates, toted them from the cars to our Ford ambulance and thence to the delousing plant.

"One sight we'll never forget, the picture of Dr. Hodges impressing a Chinese private into service. At near dawn no one is excessively cheerful nor obedient, and stretcher lifting, when you have to carry the head and a hundred weight of blankets, is hardly mirth provoking. So the soldier thought. But he forgot the poetry of slumber under the doctor's moral suasion and heavy hand.

"Everybody was up at 7, Dr. Ingram at 6, to set the stream moving through the delouser and the bathtub, the splint and dressing room, admittance chamber and X-ray. During the day another came from the south suburb hospital and 39 from Chengchow. But we were getting under way, particularly the hospital under the efficient hand of Miss Jacobus, so we cared for them better.

FENG VISITS WOUNDED

"General Feng came twice that day. If ever a high official has thrown conservative custom to the winds it is he. He arrived on a bicycle at 8 o'clock accompanied by a few of his staff and Mr. Gailey, and went about saying in English 'Good morning' and shaking hands with us. Drs. Char and Yang were operating at the time and he watched through the windows for a long while.

"Just think of that, the way those surgeons are saving the lives of my men, he murmured more than once. And then he proceeded to the temporary X-ray headquarters, where he spent over half an hour looking at fractures and bullets through the fluorescope. Later Mr. Gailey informed us that he had made the decision to fit up an X-ray car, and had inquired if the Peking Union Medical College would be willing to train two of his physicians to the work.

"He was off at 9, but returned at 4 in the afternoon, this time to make the rounds of his own men. For each one he had a word, and for many he smoothed the coverlets and spoke with a voice of tenderness as gentle as a mother's. It touched the nurses in the wards deeply, the vision of this tall, broad shouldered tuchun with the patient kindly face bending in utter sympathy over a face drawn with suffering and a body shattered and mangled.

FENG OCCUPIES PULPIT

"Some of us had heard him on Sunday when he addressed the Christians of Kaifeng at the Anglican church, and we caught the complete picture of the man, then almost an orator, who had humor and emotion and the thunder of passion, all mixed. He read from James iv., 17 out of the little testament he plucked from his coat pocket: 'To him therefore that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin.' He charged Chang Hsun and Chang Tso-lin and lesser lights, such as Chao Ti and Chao Chieh, with duplicity and crime, and upheld the righteousness of the war against them, and called on all patriots and Christians to join in the reconstruction of China.

"This verse, he said, was the one he had bade his men ponder upon at Loyang when he gathered them together one night—the night their comrades were to fight and some to die before Changhsingtien.

"It has been worth coming to Kaifeng to know this new hero of China and to minister to his men and his enemy's. The wonder is the greater when we know that it was for his enemy's soldiers that he invited us, for he had been told that his medical staff had the care of his own wounded well in hand at Chengchow And it was Chao Chieh's men who filled Kaifeng. We have X-rayed 150 of them, and are completing the treatment of about three hundred altogether, we and the Tsinan unit, C. I. M. Doctors, and others who came in the emergency."

British Churches Aroused By Seizure Of Gems By Soviet

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 4.—In addition to the protest against the Soviet's persecution of the Church made by the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, some ecclesiastical authorities in Britain are endeavoring to ascertain the possibility of sending a representative to Moscow to attend the trial of the Patriarch Tikhon.

A message from Moscow states that the Metropolitan of Petrograd and the Archbishops of Mohilev and Irkutsk have been arrested.

According to reports from Moscow the Church treasures which have been appropriated for the purpose of famine relief in forty-two provinces up to May 25 included 700 pounds of gold, 460,000 pounds of silver, 13,000 diamonds, 3,800 pearls and 30,000 other jewels.

Premier Pays High Tribute To Fallen

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 3.—After laying the foundation stone of the Criccieth War Memorial Hall Mr. Lloyd George paid a glowing tribute to the British fallen, who, he said, would have died in vain if the nations had not acknowledged that right was supreme.

A letter written by Mr. Lloyd George which was deposited in the stone, says that these young men died that the dominion of right and reason might be more firmly established in the government of men.

Poincare Wins Confidence Vote

(China Press Service)

Poincare Denies Militaristic Aims

(Reuter's Service)

Verdun, June 4.—M. Poincare, in a speech made today on the occasion of the presentation of the Congressional Medal of Honor to Verdun by the American Ambassador, declared that while differences of opinion or interests were inevitable, French and American friendship was unshakeable.

He emphatically denied allegations that France was militaristic and imperialistic and claimed that since peace had been declared France had shown extraordinary moderation towards Germany, but if peace was allowed to enrich Germany at the expense of France it meant the irretrievable defeat of the Allied cause and the humiliation and ruin of France.

France, M. Poincare added, has too much life in her to accept that and too complete a trust in the Allies to fear their disapproval or disavowal.

Union Medical College Head Tells Of War Work

(Chung Mei Service)

Kaifeng, May 29.—"Now that twelve days have passed since the Peking unit left for Kaifeng, it seems almost impossible to think and write with the thrill of the first six. Then—with unoccupied buildings to occupy, with sanitationless toilets and garbage lumps and soiled dressing depositories to sanitate, with frames to carpenter, with ice tongs to nickel plate, with a kitchen to build, with gowns to sew, with orderlies to train, with the most of a delousing plant to set up, with nails and string and tape and shot and springs and straw and dippers and lime and sand to buy; and all the while with wounded streaming in on stretchers and rickshas and table tops, their clothes soiled with dirt and pus and blood and their poor broken bodies crawling with vermin—then our brains were not with emotion and with the rapidity of events."

Thus writes Mr. Carrington Goodrich, of the Peking Union Medical College who took the relief unit from the College to Kaifeng.

"Order and routine have now commenced," he goes on, "and the soldiers—though many of them are still white with agony—are lying uncomplainingly in clean clothing and between clean coverlets, behind screened windows and doors, with fresh air to breathe and constant attention a hand, their dressings changed, their bullets out, their shattered legs and arms slung up in Thomas splints and Balkan frames.

CONDITIONS "NAMELESS"

"The namelessness of a typical military hospital in Honan! I wonder how many people are acquainted with them. There are thirteen in Chengchow and two in Kaifeng from which we took patients. The squalor and filth of most of them has already cost some of the wounded their lives, and many lasting disfigurement and disability which might have been avoided.

"After the fighting near Chengchow on the sixth and until the eleventh they poured into these discarded temples and tumbledown courtyards and were left on their stretchers to receive only the occasional and slighting care of a dresser or attendant. Dr. Ma of our party was being shown the serious cases by one high officer in the medical corps in Chengchow and was brought to the bedside of one who had been dead for twenty-four hours. If only the members of the Peking Board of War could spend a few days in them as some of these have, perhaps the hospitals will not have existed in vain.

"It was from these little hells that a large part of our soldiers came. Three or four Honan missionary hospital physicians co-operated with members of the Tsinan and Peking units in selecting them. On Monday, Dr. Hodges x-rayed 21 who had already been admitted into the China Inland Mission Hospital, and operating commenced. On Tuesday morning 20 came by stretcher and truck from the hospital inside the city; in the afternoon 15 arrived from the one south of the railroad track; at night 24 were brought by train from Chengchow.

"That was a day! The confusion of the stretcher bearers at their new job, novelty and tiredness of the delouser, the multitude of unfinished, unthought-of details in preparation of the wards at the hospital and then, the arrival of those 24 at 10:30 in the evening, a mile from the hospital, with no sign of a stretcher bearer or the hope of getting one.

TIME MEANT LIFE

"At first we considered leaving the men in the cars and fetching them early in the morning. But time meant life, so five of the Peking unit with the help of Dr. Andreassen of Kweitch and a rather unwilling captain and three privates, toted them from the cars to our Ford ambulance and thence to the delousing plant.

"One sight we'll never forget, the picture of Dr. Hodges impressing a Chinese private into service. At near dawn no one is excessively cheerful nor obedient, and stretcher lifting, when you have to carry the head and a hundred weight of blankets, is hardly mirth provoking. So the soldier thought. But he forgot the poetry of slumber under the doctor's moral suasion and heavy hand.

"Everybody was up at 7, Dr. Ingram at 6, to set the stream moving through the delouser and the bathtub, the splint and dressing room, admittance chamber and X-ray. During the day another came from the south suburb hospital and 39 from Chengchow. But we were getting under way, particularly the hospital under the efficient hand of Miss Jacobus, so we cared for them better.

FENG VISITS WOUNDED

"General Feng came twice that day. If ever a high official had thrown conservative custom to the winds it is he. He arrived on a bicycle at 8 o'clock accompanied by a few of his staff and Mr. Bailey, and went about saying in English 'Good morning' and shaking hands with us. Drs. Char and Yang were operating at the time and he watched through the windows for a long while.

"Just think of that, the way those surgeons are saving the lives of my men, he murmured more than once. And then he proceeded to the temporary X-ray headquarters, where he spent over half an hour looking at fractures and bullets through the fluorescope. Later Mr. Bailey informed us that he had made the decision to fit up an X-ray car, and had inquired if the Peking Union Medical College would be willing to train two of his physicians to the work.

"He was off at 9, but returned at 4 in the afternoon, this time to make the rounds of his own men. For each one he had a word, and for many he smoothed the coverlets and spoke with a voice of tenderness as gentle as a mother's. It touched the nurses in the wards deeply, the vision of this tall, broad shouldered tuchun with the patient kindly face bending in utter sympathy over a face drawn with suffering and a body shattered and mangled.

FENG OCCUPIES PULPIT

"Some of us had heard him on Sunday when he addressed the Christians of Kaifeng at the Anglican church, and we caught the complete picture of the man, when almost an orator, who had humor and emotion and the thunder of passion, all mixed. He read from James iv., 17 out of the little testament he plucked from his coat pocket: 'To him therefore that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin.' He charged Chang Hsun and Chang Tso-lin and lesser lights, such as Chao Ti and Chao Chieh, with duplicity and crime, and upheld the righteousness of the war against them, and called on all patriots and Christians to join in the reconstruction of China.

"This verse, he said, was the one he had bade his men ponder upon at Loyang when he gathered them together one night—the night their comrades were to fight and some to die before Changhsingtien.

"It has been worth coming to Kaifeng to know this new hero of China and to minister to his men and his enemy's. The wonder is the greater when we know that it was for his enemy's soldiers that he invited us, for he had been told that his medical staff had the care of his own wounded well in hand at Chengchow And it was Chao Chieh's men who filled Kaifeng. We have X-rayed 150 of them, and are completing the treatment of about three hundred altogether, we and the Tsinan unit, C. I. M. Doctors, and others who came in the emergency."

Manchuria, Mongolia, And Siberia

BY PAUL S. REINSCH

(Recently U. S. Minister To China)

UNTIL recently the northwest of the continent of Asia was considered the backyard of civilisation; it has now become plain that it will be one of the principal theaters of events in the future. The dependencies of Manchuria and Mongolia are as large in area as China of the eighteen provinces. The resources aside from the agricultural wealth, which lies plainly on the surface, have only been roughly surveyed; or not at all, for the most part. But the known iron ore reserves of the Province of Fengtien (South Manchuria) alone are more than half of the total reserves of the Chinese Republic.

In population these regions do not compare with China proper; they are therefore looked upon by the Chinese as a great reserve for future expansion and settlement. The population of Manchuria has indeed grown fast. At the time of the Chino-Japanese War it was estimated at 7,000,000. At present it is 15,000,000. There has been a steady stream of colonists from the south, particularly from Shantung and Chihli provinces. During the famine of 1921 at least 300,000 colonists came from the famine regions to Manchuria. There has also been some colonisation in the border lands of Mongolia.

It is by reason of this development as well as because of the growing national sentiment among the Chinese that their attitude toward the great dependencies has changed. They are no longer dependencies but are looked upon as integral parts of the Chinese Republic represented in its central institutions. They differ, indeed, in characteristics of population and climate, but to the Chinese the whole Republic forms a united domain, impressive in size and resources, but none too large for the future needs of this great population. The Chinese are no longer half indifferent to these outlying regions. The existence for some two decades of Russian and Japanese interests there has by no no means accustomed the Chinese to look with equanimity upon such inroads. They have in fact become constantly more sensitive and more desirous of safeguarding the ultimate national control of these important regions. The intense feeling excited throughout China by the so-called Twenty-one Demands and the insistent popular clamor for their renunciation at the Washington Conference furnish abundant proof of the irritation in China on this point.

The Japanese have indeed achieved a very strong position in South Manchuria. Its strength is due entirely to the control of the South Manchurian Railway, which enables Japan largely to dominate the economic development of the province and its commerce, and which also holds the constant opportunity of bringing troops upon Chinese territory and thus giving support to political influence. The most important holdings of the Japanese in Manchuria are the coal and iron mines which came to them with the Manchurian Railway. The exploitation of these has been very profitable. From a financial point of view the railway has been less so. The concessions which have been obtained through political influence in recent years, relating to timber, colonisation, etc., have thus far been not at all profitable. As experience elsewhere shows, such concessions obtained by political influence are often vitiated as economic ventures by the fact that governments have been induced through desire for greater political influence to encourage their nationals to undertake enterprises without a careful consideration of economic soundness. The joint enterprises recently undertaken with Chinese who are generally considered the instruments of Japan have also been unprofitable. The original investment has been spent without much of permanent value to show. The Japanese are beginning to realise that the mixing of political and economic purposes has its disadvantages.

Merchants of other nationalities trying to do business in Manchuria have felt their dependence upon the means of communication controlled by the Japanese. The Japanese have practically acquired a monopoly of some lines of trade in which they have successfully shut out other foreign competition. This is done not by open discrimination but by a multitude of contrivances which may be used, with a constant ringing of changes, until competitors are discouraged. A characteristic example occurred a few years ago when a contract for some machinery was to be let at Kirin. The Japanese advised the Chinese that they would be foolish to order of Americans, who because of the great distance would be able to furnish the machinery only with considerable delay. The American merchants assured the Chinese that as the machinery was actually at Shanghai it could be shipped to Kirin quite as fast as from Japan. A large part of the order was given to Americans, but so many unavoidable mistakes and delays occurred on the Manchurian Railway that the prophecy of the Japanese was fully made good. It is experiences such as this, of daily occurrence, which have made foreign merchants in China develop a most vigorous prejudice against the ownership and control of railways in China by an outside government.

In certain ways the Russian and Japanese activities in Manchuria have in the past undoubtedly tended to the more rapid economic development of this region. The Chinese themselves had not been ready for large enterprises in outlying parts of their country. The money spent by the Russians and Japanese has anticipated by many years developments which otherwise would have come much later. The local population, on the business side of their nature, have therefore not been entirely dissatisfied with the presence of this foreign enterprise, although they object to its political implications.

The belief which is occasionally expressed that Manchuria ought to serve as a population outlet for an overcrowded Japan is not borne out by the facts. As agricultural colonists or as laborers the Japanese do not emigrate to the continent of Asia. After eighteen years there are at present only 60,000 Japanese in Manchuria. In so far as they are not employees of the railway or of Japanese mines, they are petty traders. As farmers or as general merchants they do not seem successfully to compete with the Chinese. Moreover, the climate seems to be unfavorable to them. Their constitutions do not bear up under the severity of the Manchurian winter cold.

It is quite remarkable that there should have been developed in this outlying region, and under the abnormal political conditions there obtaining, a great political influence embodied in the person of the military governor, General Chang Tso-lin. About this unusual man no two observers would probably hold the same opinion. To some he is a mere unscrupulous adventurer bent on enriching himself, to others he is a tool of Japan, to others still an exceedingly clever manipulator of complicated relationships, and to a few a strong man who may yet put his strength at the service of China. He is generally spoken of as the Hung-hutze (Red Top, Manchurian bandit) because in his youth he was carried off by brigands and brought up in their band. But while still a young man he graduated into military command and politics. In both he has been extremely successful, but he also has great financial ability, with the result that the entire banking system of Manchuria has been made to work in cooperation with his projects and policies. Certainly a more difficult position than he occupies could hardly be conceived. He is watched with a jealous eye by the Chinese, alert to discover any sign of disloyalty or subservience to foreign interests. On the other hand the foreign interest in this case has so strongly fortified a local position that no man could maintain himself continuously as Chang Tso-lin has done without having, to a certain extent at least, the tolerance of Japan. He cannot cross the path of Japan too often; he must cooperate with the Japanese in certain matters; yet unless he can maintain his personal independence and retain a certain liberty of action, his position would soon become untenable. . . .

In the northern part of Manchuria, where the Russian interests formerly predominated, a very complex situation has arisen. Here, as in South Manchuria, the railway is the crux of the matter. The China Eastern Railway franchise belongs jointly to Russia and China. The Russo-Asiatic Bank, under the old regime the agent of the Russian Government, still claims the right to act as the guardian of the Russian property; as the bank, however, is now controlled by French stockholders a peculiar twist has been given to the situation, and France enters as a party of special interest in North Manchuria. The bank has agreed to Chinese management of the railway. As the railway, however, is part of the Siberian system, the Interallied Commission, under Mr. John F. Stevens, has interested itself in it, with the backing of the United States and the more or less lukewarm support of the associated Powers. Meanwhile there has been a great deal of intrigue between certain Chinese elements and the Japanese with a view to placing a Japanese loan on the railway. Such a step would inevitably bring about Japanese control and an assimilation of the China-Eastern to the South Manchurian Railway.

The Government of the Far Eastern Republic, which next to China has the greatest interest in this railway, has thus far not been consulted by the foreign Powers, nor, or course, has the Soviet Government. But the latter, through its agent at Peking, Mr. Alexander K. Paykes, has recently assured the Chinese Governmnt that the railway will be handed over to China without compensation, on condition that arrangements can be made guaranteeing that it will remain entirely in the hands of China and under her control. This assurance carries out previous promises made by the Moscow, as well as the Far Eastern, Government. The declaration these Russian governments has created among the Chinese people a feeling of friendship for Russia under the new regime.

With respect to Mongolia, this feeling was somewhat overcast by the continued presence in Urga of a force of Soviet troops. When Baron Ungern made his attempt with the assistance of the Japanese, to seize Urga and to use it as a base of operations against Soviet Russia, troops were sent for his eviction by both the Moscow and the Chita governments. When his overthrow had been accomplished the Chita troops withdrew, but those of Moscow remained. The Moscow Government declared that they had no desire whatsoever to interfere in Mongolia, or with the relations between the Chinese Government and Mongolia, and that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as it had become clear that there was no danger of any further buccaneering expeditions.

A few years ago I had a long conversation with the then Russian minister in Peking concerning Russian policies in Mongolia. Three years before, in 1914, the Russians had prevailed upon China to recognise the "autonomy" of Outer Mongolia and they had themselves entered upon treaty relationships, foreshadowing a protectorate over that region. My conversation with the Russian minister dealt with a proposal that Americans should build a railway along the southern border of Mongolia to the Province of Kansu. This the Russians had objected to. In explaining their objection the Russian minister went into their Mongolian policy at length. He said that they desired to treat Mongolia as a protective zone and that they were therefore not favorable to any railway building or colonisation which would bring the Chinese population en masse closer to the Russian territory in Central Siberia.

In the course of the war the Chinese, against the protest of the Russian minister, undertook to make arrangements with the Mongolians for the cancellation of "autonomy" and the complete reunification of the national territory. At this time there was a great interest manifested in Mongolia by Chinese public men. In 1919 General Hsu Shu-tcheng (known as "little Hsu" to distinguish him from the President) was appointed High Commissioner for Mongolia. His enemies said that it was done in order to keep him busy away from Peking. He developed an ambitious program of railway building and colonisation; and, as the Chinese always do in such cases, he founded a bank, the Mongolian Development Bank. When I last saw him in Peking he was highly elated because he had just received a report that at the great races at Urga for the time within the memory of man two thrones had been placed on the grandstand, one for the premier of the Living Buddha, the other for the representative of General Hsu.

While not much railway building could be accomplished, automobile routes were established for passenger service across the plains of Mongolia. These developments were, however, halted by the troubles brought on through the exploits of Baron Ungern; and it is only now that active thought of Mongolian developments is being resumed in China. If the new Russian Government adhores to its declarations, the Chinese will have an unobstructed opportunity for colonisation and enterprise in this region. They will, of course, have to consider the rights and interests of the local population, and it is evident that there will be many problems wherever a settled population is to take the place of a nomadic one.

Enough has already been said to show the relationship between these outlying regions of China and the Siberian population with its new government. Between the two, like a wedge, the Japanese have inserted themselves. Should they continue to arouse the antagonism of both of the great populations of Northern Asia it would seem to be foolhardy to prophesy success for Japanese continental ventures.

RHYMES OF THE TIMES

(No Lyceum. No Smoking. No Strap Hanging. No Nothin' —and what next?)

The Council some few days ago
Shut up the old Lyceum.
Today it says "Thou shalt not smoke."
—Kill-joyers sing Te Deum!
Most of our liberties have gone
With councillors' new strictures,
And now my Lady Nicotine
I can't take to the pictures.

You board a tram car at midday,
It's filled to overflowing.
To Yangtszepoo or Bubbling—
Maskee which way you're going,
You try to get a seat inside,
But find that you are hanging
Just by a strap.
You're in the trap
You're fined and get a slanging.

The councillors are sure to turn
Their eyes to wicked dancing,
They fear some precious soul will burn
When dead—No risk they're chancing.
And so. I fear, those jazzy bands
Must make way for the pastor,
That lovely floor
That girls adore
May vanish from the Astor.

The fellow who would stay out late
Will find that his joy riding
Will bring upon him words of hate
Till he is law abiding:
By 9 o'clock each Summer eve
At home, with wifie weeping,
With all the woes
Of mosquitoes
To keep them from their sleeping.

And lastly you can quite rely
That in this thirsty weather,
They'll pass a law to make us "Dry"

No more we'll hold the sparkling bowl,
Filled to the brim with nectar,
And Adam's Ale
Will turn us pale
And each will look a spectre.

PURSE STRINGS

The British Women's Association, coupled with the name of Mrs. Jory, are to be heartily congratulated upon the success that attended their production of "Purse Strings." The Olympic Theater was well filled each night, and the audiences were most enthusiastic. There is only one thing left for Mrs. Jory and her players to do, and that is to get busy upon another, for like Oliver Twist we all "want more."

Many of the husbands must have been grateful for the dim light in the auditorium. It saved their blushes. It really looked as if keeping a wife short of money would plunge hubby into disaster.

Though your wife should grow worser and worser,
Be careful, old man, how you curse her,
Or she possibly may
Try the shop-lifting way
And then tell the judge you coerce her.

H. V. ESMOND

It comes as sad news both to players and playgoers the paragraph that tells of the death of Mr. H. V. Esmond, the famous London actor and playwright.

Possessed of a fine stage presence and an excellent voice he readily became the center of attention whenever he was on the stage.

His facile pen, which turned out many thousands of lines of brilliant dialogue, gave to the world a series of plays which must always maintain our interest. "When We Were Twenty One" has been before the public many years, and its revival is always greeted with pleasure. It is so full of the "milk of human kindness" that it takes the shortest cut to our hearts.

Another of his plays that we have had the pleasure of seeing here is "Eliza Comes To Stay." Still another is "The Dangerous Age," at first called "The Dear Fool."

Two of H. V. Esmond's young players are well known to local audiences. Mrs. Chris Wingrove (Miss Sybil Westmacott) was with the polished actor and his wife, Miss Eva Moore, for three years. She played in all three plays that I have mentioned above, and was at the Vaudeville with them when "The Dangerous Age" was first produced, taking the part of "Dolly Palgraive" and also appearing in the curtain-raiser "The Rest Cure."

When Mrs. Chris Wingrove left the company her place was taken by Miss Marjorie Clarke, who starred in the Edgar Warwick Comedy Company. We still have pleasant recollections of "Brown Sugar" and "Eliza."

It is interesting to note that Mrs. Wingrove after graduating in the Academy of Dramatic Art played prominent parts not only in modern comedy, but with Tree in "Joseph and His Brethren" and in many of Shakespeare's plays. We are lucky to have so talented a player now foremost in our amateur ranks.

OTHER PEOPLE'S WORRIES

I have just written to London for a play called "Other People's Worries" which, I hope, I shall be able to get the A.D.C. to put on next season. It was brought to my attention by that clever little actor Compton Coutts, who scored such a great success at the Lyceum some few years ago in the part of "Grumpy."

This is briefly what Compton Coutts, who is taking a part in the show, has to say about the new comedy.

R. C. Carton may be getting along in years but his latest comedy is a real treat. There isn't a dull moment in the whole show, and it was fine to listen to the continuous laughter that greeted both dialogue and incident. The principal cause of "the worries" may be ascribed to a certain Mrs. Ryecroft, a flighty lady of great charm, whose matrimonial life is dulled by a missing husband whom she is anxious to replace at the earliest moment. The main theme is held up in the second act while the dramatist depicts a charity musical at-home. This does not seem to upset the audience, for from start to finish it is great fun.

But the fun becomes uproarious in the last act, when two new characters are introduced, viz: the husband with an ungovernable temper, who has been missing for years, who returns to find that his wife has been carrying on in his absence; and a private detective just recovering from influenza, who is so weak that he cries when questioned. It is really topping light comedy which pleases. If you want to forget that there is a bad time in front of you, that shroffs are about to call, that your exchange is all against you, or that you have had a row with your wife, I can cordially recommend a read-over of "Other People's Worries."

WILLIE MOULE

Mr. "Willie" Moule scored a century last week, and showed more than flashes of the brilliancy which has called forth from our best authorities on cricket the verdict that he is probably the prettiest bat who has been to Shanghai.

This is not his first century. Some years before a few of the members of teams he was playing with and against were born, he hit up a hundred. A glance at the Honors Board in the pavilion will show his name time and time again as a centurian. One of the best of good fellows, he has done much for the great game locally. I was only talking to Harry Ollerdessen—another of our best cricketers—about the value of watching good cricket. Harry's reply was "I learned most of my cricket by watching Willie Moule for hour after hour when I was a kid." It is good to know that the present day youngster is still able to have such a fine exponent of the game as Mr. "Willie" Moule.

MISLEADING!

A theatrical company after a dreary and unsuccessful tour, arrived in a small town in the southern part of the U.S.A.

That night, though there was no general uprising of the audience, there was enough hand-clapping to arouse the dejected spirits of the actors.

The leading man stepped to the footlights after the first act, and bowed profoundly.

Still the clapping continued. When he went behind the scenes, he saw an Irish stage-hand laughing heartily.

"Well, what do you think of that?" asked the actor, throwing out his chest.

"What d'ye mean?"

"Wh", the hand-clapping out there."

"D'ye call that applause? Why, that's the audience killin' mosquitoes."

A POPULAR KIND

She was a simple young thing, and it was with a bashful air that she sidled up to the necktie counter in the outfitting stores.

"I want a tie for my young man," she said to the polite assistant. "Something appropriate to his tastes; he's a keen footballer, you know."

"Perhaps you can tell me his club colors?" suggested the salesman.

"Sorry," was the maiden's answer, "but I really forget them."

Then an idea of dazzling brilliance seized her.

"Just the thing," she cooed joyfully. "Show me some cuties, please."

JAPAN EXPLAINS OPIUM POLICY IN SHANTUNG

Peking Legation Tells Association Of "Tapering Off" Plan

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 2.—The International Anti-Opium Association, Peking, has received the following communication from the Japanese Legation with regard to opium traffic at Tsingtao:—

With reference to your communication of February 9 last, relative to opium importation into Kiaochao, Mr. Obata informed you in his letter dated the 5th of the same month that the matter had been duly referred to the Japanese Authorities concerned with the request that a full investigation be carried but immediately. I am now in receipt of a reply from the Authorities concerned, a gist of which is as follows:—

The opium monopoly system in Kiaochao was abolished by the end of March 1921, as this Legation communicated to your Association on October 14, 1920. Soon afterwards, however, it became inevitably clear to the Japanese Government that it would be extremely inhuman so abruptly to put a stop to the supply of opium, in view of the fact that there are thousands who are so addicted to the opium habit that the sudden cutting off of supply would almost mean death to them.

In order to attain, therefore, the object of totally extinguishing this harmful habit without causing so much suffering to the habitual smokers, the Japanese Government felt constrained slightly to alter its declared policy and to devise means which will gradually decrease the number of confirmed smokers and reach in a few years total abolition of this baneful habit.

The amended policy was to the following effect:—

1.—It was estimated that there were about 10,000 habitual smokers among 200,000 Chinese inhabitants of the Leased Territory. Of these 10,000 habitual smokers from 2,000 to 3,500 were calculated to be so much under the influence of the habit that if not properly cured they would be in danger of their lives in case a certain amount of opium was not afforded them.

2.—If proper medical treatment were accorded this enormous number of opiomaniacs might be decreased by twenty percent per annum, so that by the end of five years none would be left.

3.—Taking the number of these opiomaniacs to be about 2,000 the amount of prepared opium needed to supply them would be 2.466 mommes (about 7.56 mommes being one ounce) a day (maximum quantity to be given to one person is calculated to be three mommes, while the minimum is 0.7 mommes) that is, 900,090 mommes a year. The raw material necessary for the production of this amount of opium treacle would be 1,384,754 mommes.

4.—The total amount of supply according to this system would be:—

		mommes.
1st	Year	900,090
2nd	Year	720,000
3rd	Year	540,054
4th	Year	360,036
5th	Year	180,018

According to this modified system 3,113 permits were given out to applicants who were found upon careful investigation by competent doctors to be confirmed opium smokers. Since the end of March 1921 no new permits have been issued. In order to meet the needs of these recognised smokers 1.20 piculs of Turkish (not Formosan) opium and 36 piculs of Persian opium were imported in 1921, the former on January 22 and the latter on May 3.

The reason why there was less importation in 1919 than 1918 and none at all in 1920, one of the questions put forward in your letter, was that in 1919 and 1920 the supply to smokers was maintained by the remainder of the opium imported the previous year.

Both the old and the new monopoly systems designate a certain firm which alone is allowed to import raw materials, prepare opium treacle and sell it to the recognised smokers. The great difference between the old and the new monopoly systems, also a question mentioned at the end of your letter, is that under the old system those who wanted to smoke opium had only to apply for permission and if found under medical examination to be confirmed smokers permission was accordingly granted. Under the new system, however, no new permits were to be given, the new system having the object of totally abolishing this harmful habit in five years.

Not all of the 37.20 piculs of opium imported last year was to be consumed in a year. That quantity was imported in anticipation of future use also.
